

Leah Giles is a storyteller and maker in Brooklyn. She draws, collages, and paints from her noisy little apartment with her pets scrambling at her feet. Leah is a fan of all things colorful, patterned, and full of heart. She loves fearless, playful characters and bright and bold families.

“Music connects me to my family, my friends, and my community. Painting worlds that come alive with pattern and sound is what I love to do most. Colorful stories that roar with spirit, imagination, and determination are what I seek to create every day.”
