

Jennie Palmer is an author-illustrator based out of Burbank, California. Before making books for children, Jennie built small props and puppets for various kids' TV shows, as well as big balloons and floats for the Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade. Jennie is a graduate of RISD, where she majored in illustration.

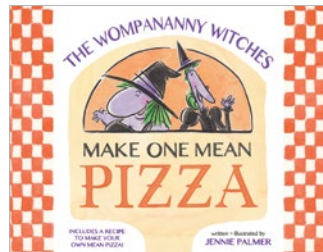

I LOVE funny stories with emotive characters and heart, like in the books Sophie's Squash and Rhinos Don't Eat Pancakes. I'm dying to mix illuminated manuscript elements into a diverse graphic novel or picture book.
