

Sam Zuppardi studied English Literature and then social work while holding down various jobs, including working in a book warehouse, a nursery, a bookstore and a toy shop. Today he splits his time between making picture books and working as a child and adolescent psychotherapist. Sam lives in York, England.

I WOULD LOVE TO ILLUSTRATE something unusual and unexpected, perhaps a little bit dark, but with real emotions that children will recognize as true. Either that or something totally off the wall with loads of visual ideas to play with.
