

Stacy Ebert is an author-illustrator with a background in graphic design and elementary education. Today, she blissfully illustrates and composes zany lines and words for picture books from her Midwest studio, where she lives with her husband, three sons, one painted piano, and three coral peonies.

“MY DREAM PICTURE BOOK would be one that transpires from metaphor and analogy. It is eccentrically normal, mildly profound, magically real, and seriously humorous.”

