Jacob Souva is an author-illustrator who used to think he was cursed with a runaway imagination and silly daydreams, but now he sees them as the bits that make up great stories. He's happy not to be cursed. Jacob is married with two sons, a feisty cat, and a turtle named Michelangelo. He and his family live in a small community in upstate New York, where they love to make their own pizza and have nerf wars. Jacob always loses.
