

Ericka Lugo is a Puerto Rican illustrator who has worked with various publishers, including Penguin Random House, Macmillan, and Tundra. She loves to play video games, browse recipes, and, always, be cozy. Her constant questioning about out-of-place objects in her household has prompted her partner to nickname her "Tiny Detective."

I'D LOVE to work on stories that deal with friendships and how messy it can be to navigate them. Also at the top of my list: self-discovery or coming-of-age themes mixed with family drama, and a sprinkle of fashion, mystery, or magic!
